COINAGE OF THE HAWAIIAN KINGDOM:

King Kalakaua's Coins

By

JACOB ADLER

Concluded from February, 1960

Circulation of Coin

After the lawsuit, the first Kalakaua half dollar known to be in circulation was found in the receipts of the Honolulu Music Hall on the night of January 10, 1884. Miss Louise Beaudet was appearing in the title role of a play, The Woman of the People or the Horrors of Drink. C. R. Buckland, manager of the play, had the coin made into a pendant, and presented it to Miss Beaudet as a memento of her performance. She wore the pendant a few days later while playing in a farce called Matrimony.³⁰

Another Hawaiian half dollar was displayed on January 12 in the window of Wiseman and Ashley, general business agents, and attracted much attention.³¹ Two days later the coins went into general circulation, and at the same time the bank of Claus Spreckels and Company opened for business. One of the purposes of the bank was evidently to aid in the circulation of the coinage. Both the bank and the Treasury made the coin available. There was a great demand for it at both places.³² By June 9, 1884, the entire $1,000,000 in Hawaiian silver had been received in the kingdom.

Early reaction to the silver was mixed. The Gazette: "The new coins have entered quietly into circulation and have been accepted without a murmur, although there is an undercurrent of hostile feeling to their usurping the place of American half and quarter dollars, and this feeling may find expression in the near future."³³

The Bulletin: "The coins, so the ladies say, make very nice brooches and ornaments. Business men say what a pity they do not contain more silver."³⁴

The Advertiser: "The new coins are pretty to look at and smile out upon one from among the dingier ones which have seen more service as pleasantly as if they had never been the cause of heart-burnings and controversy and political plots."³⁵ But more "heart-burnings and controversy" were yet to come. Argument over the coinage continued in the newspapers, occupied a great many meetings of the Chamber of Commerce, and raged in the legislative session of 1884.

In reply to complaints of an excess of silver, the Advertiser claimed that there had really been a serious shortage of change, and the Kalakaua coins were therefore a boon to retailers.³⁶ Both the Advertiser and the Gazette noted the disappearance of the United States half dollars and quarters, in favor of the Hawaiian silver, but they interpreted this differently. The Advertiser thought it was a sign of the acceptability of the new coins. The Gazette, referring to Gresham's law, jibed: "Here is an opportunity for [the Advertiser] to start a new financial theory."³⁷ The Gazette

derisively referred to the coins as *kimo-ai-luau*³⁸ (cheap) coins, and noted that British sovereigns were at a premium of sixteen per cent as compared with the Hawaiian silver.³⁹

In a letter to the Minister of Finance on January 9, 1884, the Chamber of Commerce expressed its concern over introduction of the silver. The chamber claimed it would be difficult to enforce the

Attacks in the Legislature of 1884

In the 1884 legislative session, attacks on the coinage began early and increased in force as the session progressed. J. Nawahi on April 30 introduced a resolution calling on Kapena to explain when the Hawaiian silver had become legal tender. This was a mild enough beginning, but the Bulletin called the resolution "a slight shred of cloud prognostic of coming thunder."

Regular issue Hawaiian coins of 1883, dollar, half dollar, quarter and dime.

Legal Tender Act of 1876 because silver would fall in value relative to gold. The chamber recommended that further imports of silver be limited, and that all silver coins other than those of Hawaii and the United States be withdrawn at the expense of the Treasury. Thanking the chamber for its interest, the government said its views would be seriously considered.⁴⁰

Kapena explained that the coin had been made legal tender by the Privy Council on a date which he had forgotten.⁴¹

S. B. Dole moved on May 7 that a duty of ten per cent be paid on the Hawaiian coin in accordance with the Legal Tender Act requiring payment of duty on foreign coin. Gibson answered: "The Coin was ordered, consigned and delivered to the Hawaiian Government, in accordance with an act passed in 1880 [the coinage act], and the Government will not levy a duty on its own importations."⁴² He dramatically held up three plantation tokens:⁴³ A rial stamped WAILUKU PLANTATION, another stamped HAIKU PLANTATION, and a third with "T" (Torbert). These, he said, were practically worthless, but Hawaiian coins were as good as those of the United States. Nawahi retorted: "The Ministers remind me of a lot of new beginners in a primary school, they knew nothing when they started, but they picked it up" as they went along.⁴⁴ After more discussion, Dole's motion to require duty on the coins was tabled.

38. The term kimo-ai-luau does not appear in Hawaiian dictionaries. According to the Hawaiian translator at the Archives of Hawaii, Jack Matthews, it means literally "Jimmy eats taro tops." Taro tops (greens) were a common food. Hence kimo-ai-luau means "common" or "cheap."

W. O. Smith moved that the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Gibson, be required to produce all his papers on the coinage transaction. The first shipment of coin, said Smith, had been consigned to the government, but later shipments had been consigned to William G. Irwin and Company (Spreckels and Irwin). "The manipulating of the coin was more through the Foreign Office than through the Finance Office."⁴⁵

Representative Richardson amended the resolution to require the production of all "Cabinet supply papers," not only those of the foreign office. Gibson said he had "the honor to second the resolution offered by the Hon. Member from Wailuku." Gibson would be happy "to give all the information in his power relating to this matter."⁴⁶ During the rest of the session there was something of a game of hide-and-seek, in which Gibson and the documents remained elusive.

S. B. Dole next occupied himself with the question of how much profit Spreckels had made. On May 27 he asked what salary had been paid to Spreckels for acting as the government's agent for the coinage. Gibson replied he understood "from Mr. Spreckels that he had a bill of charges to present." He (Gibson) would soon lay this bill before the house. "It included nine months' interest on bullion, seignorage of the United States, and insurance and freight."⁴⁷

About a month later, with no bill by Spreckels yet produced, Dole said the coinage had been illegal and had been given to Spreckels without regard to what this would cost the kingdom. Gibson denied there had been any loss on the coinage. Dole then accused the ministry of dishonoring the throne by their unlawful actions. Gibson answered that such a charge was not warranted: "His Majesty, in his intelligence, will not allow any one to dishonor the throne by unlawful actions."⁴⁸

Dole on August 15 introduced a resolution that Gibson be required to report on the profit Spreckels had made. The resolution passed.⁴⁹ Gibson denied having said on May 27 that Spreckels's bill of charges was yet to come in, though his remarks to that effect had been published in four different newspapers. Gibson said that maybe the newspapers were mistaken.⁵⁰ Nevertheless, on August 29 he made his report, remarking that it had been in his pocket for several days, and he might have forgotten it if someone had not asked for it:

The cost of the bullion assayed and refined for the Hawaiian Coinage was $87.40 per dollar [sic], added to 1.75 per cent seignorage of the U. S. Government, half of one per cent cost of dies, and then estimate for interest on bullion, cost of transportation, insurance, exchange, and minor expenses properly chargeable to the coinage, the cost . . . would be about 97 cents to the dollar.⁵¹

The legislature voted to accept the report and to publish it in the newspapers.

Gibson had been fairly successful in dodging and parrying the thrusts on the floor of the legislature, but in one area the opposition scored solidly, namely, in the report of the finance committee. Evidently based on some competent and deep digging, this report charged violations of the coinage act and the loan act by the Minister of Finance. The coinage act authorized him to buy gold and silver bullion with money in the Treasury. "He bought no bullion to be coined into gold and silver coins but agreed with Mr. Spreckels to take $1,000,000 in silver Hawaiian coins in exchange for U. S. Gold Bonds of the Hawaiian Government."⁵²

Ten cent pieces were brought in, continued the report, although the coinage act authorized twelve and one-half cent pieces. The dollars were worth only eighty-one and a half cents as compared with gold coin of the United States. The report also charged that Hawaiian silver was driving British and American gold coins and American standard silver dollars out of circulation.⁵³

The opposition held a mass meeting at the Honolulu Lyceum on June 23 which resulted in a general indictment of the ministry and its action on the Kalakaua coinage. Leaders pictured the meeting as nonpolitical, but only views of the opposition found expression. Much of the talk contained overtones of revolution. J. O. Carter, speaking for over an hour, said among other things that the report of the finance committee presented a startling condition of affairs to every tax-paying citizen of the kingdom. He went on:

We want an honest, economical administration for this Government. . . . Are we to go on paying taxes to a set of men who seem determined to use Government money at their own sweet will? I hope this meeting will so express itself . . . that His Majesty will understand we are doing that which is our last resort. There is nothing beyond this but force, and none of us wish to see force brought into play.⁵⁴

The meeting passed a resolution of lack of confidence in the ministry and called for its resignation. Item four of the resolution said "the Kingdom has a silver coinage in excess of its needs, upon which by the neglect of the Ministry, the Treasury has lost and an individual has made a large profit."⁵⁵

A few days after this meeting Dole introduced in the legislature a formal resolution of lack of confidence. Next day the resolution was tabled twenty-five to twenty-one, all four ministers voting to table. Except for their votes, permitted under Hawaiian law, there would have been a tie.⁵⁶

Downfall of the ministry might well have meant a withdrawal of the Kalakaua coinage and an upheaval in the monetary affairs of the kingdom—for better or for worse. It would have put the "hard" money men in the saddle, as opposed to the "easy" money Spreckels crowd. More conflict between these two forces was still to come.

Passage of Gold Law

The controversy over the Kalakaua silver directed attention to the coinage and currency problems of the kingdom. One important result was the Gold Law of 1884, signed on July 17. Spreckels and the government forces at first opposed this

51. P. C. Advertiser, September 2, 1884; Bulletin, September 1, 1884. Gibson's estimate of three cents on the dollar would put the total profit on the coinage of $1,000,000 at $30,000. This is probably too low. On the other hand, published estimates of the profit at $150,000 to $250,000 are probably too high. The exact profit is of no great moment, but it was probably slightly under $100,000.

law. The conservative businessmen of the community, including the Chamber of Commerce and those who opposed the coinage, supported it. Essentially the argument was one of easy money versus hard money. The cry of the supporters of the gold law was: "Gold is the only currency!"

Even before general circulation of the Hawaiian silver the Advertiser had questioned what was to be done eventually with English, French, Italian, Spanish, Mexican, and Italian coins which had been passing as dollars and quarters: "If we are to have a coinage of our own and if we are to make the coins of the U. S. legal tender here permanently, the day must come when all other coins must be deprived of that currency which the law gives to some and custom gives to others."⁵⁷ The newspaper called for ultimate redemption of foreign coins (other than those of the United States) without loss to the holders, the government to bear the cost of redemption.

It will be recalled that on January 9, 1884, the Chamber of Commerce had made similar recommendations, calling also for a limit to further imports of silver. A committee of the chamber complained on May 19 that the government had not carried out these recommendations. The committee also said that refusal of the government to receive silver in payment of customs would cause it to fall in value: "Your committee are at a loss to know how the circulation of silver coinage at par, and the demand for U. S. gold at the Custom House can co-exist." The committee recommended that the chamber sponsor a law which would: (1) Bring the Legal Tender Act of 1876 "into harmony with the requirements of commerce"; (2) put the kingdom on a gold basis; (3)

provide for redeeming and shipping out excess silver at the expense of the Treasury; and (4) reduce the legal tender limit of silver from $50 to $20.⁵⁸

A. S. Hartwell (who had been attorney for Castle, Dole, and Smith in the coinage suit) submitted a long letter to the Bulletin in favor of a gold law. He wrote: "Gold is the least fluctuating in value and the best kind of money." Gold, he argued, would prevent foreign exchange from going above one and a quarter to one and a half per cent. He said Hawaiian silver should be made legal tender only up to five dollars.⁵⁹ The Editor of the Bulletin also advocated a legal limit of five dollars on silver, and argued against that of ten dollars contained in the draft of a gold law by J. Mott Smith.⁶⁰

As passed in mid-July, the gold law, entitled an "Act to Regulate the Currency," made Hawaiian and American silver coins legal tender up to ten dollars. Other important provisions of the act, generally effective December 1, 1884, were:

Section One. Gold coins of the United States were made the standard and legal tender for all debts, public and private.

Section Three. Foreign coins (other than U. S.) were to be receivable only at bullion value for debts due the government.

Section Four. Whenever "equilibrium" between gold and silver coins in circulation was disturbed, the government was to replace sufficient silver with gold coins of the United States.

Section Five. Within a sixty day period all foreign silver coins (other than U. S.) were to be exchanged at the treasury at par for Hawaiian silver coins.⁶¹ Redeemed coins were to be sold for gold, the loss on conversion to be borne by the Treasury.

61. This sixty day period expired September 30, 1884.

62. For copy of the gold law see Session Laws, 1884, pp. 20-23. Repeal of the Coinage Act of 1880 effectively prevented any further coinage of Hawaiian silver beyond the $1,000,000 which had already been received. The important effect of the repeal of the Legal Tender Act of 1876 was to reduce from $50 to $10 the legal limit of silver. It was hoped thus to promote the circulation of more gold.

Section Eight. Silver certificates, except those of ten dollar denomination, were to be redeemable at the treasury for gold coin of the United States. Redeemed certificates were to be cancelled.

Section Ten. The Coinage Act of 1880 and the Legal Tender Act of 1876 were repealed.⁶²

Aftermath of Gold Law

The conservative, hard money men in the community hoped to find in the gold law a solution to the monetary problems of the kingdom. After passage of the law, however, the argument over the coinage continued. It had been charged that introduction of the Kalakaua coinage produced an excess of silver, and even after redemption of foreign silver many persons thought there was still an excess. The businessmen also charged the government with failure to carry out the gold law. For this charge, as will be seen below, there was probably ample justification.

A great difference of opinion developed about the total of silver which should be kept in circulation. In early December, 1884, the Chamber of Commerce appointed a committee to recommend that the government reduce silver currency to $350,000 by converting part of the Hawaiian silver to gold.⁶³ This request was based on Section Four of the gold law. P. C. Jones, a prominent financier, thought that $400,000 would be about the right amount of silver. A "planter was reported as saying that $600,000 would not be too much."⁶⁴ The Bulletin said that the chamber memorial to the government calling for conversion of a large amount of Hawaiian silver into gold "was hardly practical since not a half dozen merchants can be found of one mind as to what would be a sufficiency of silver to retain."⁶⁵

With respect to grumblings in some quarters about the workings of the gold law the Gazette said:

It is all very well to complain that the "gold law" is at the bottom of the trouble — but that is complaining very much after the fashion of the sufferer from the gout, who having brought on his disease by high living, blames the medicine he takes as the cause of all his discomfort. Without thought for the future the Minister of Foreign Affairs greedily borrowed $1,000,000 in silver coin. We know perfectly well what was the result until the "gold law" medicine was taken; exchange ran up to eight and a half per cent, and there was still an upward tendency: Directly the gold law came into operation down went exchange to a reasonable price. Unless steps are taken, exchange will go up again, for as long as we have so much silver in the country, it is bound to drive out the valuable coin.⁶⁶

As a method of settling the question whether there was too much silver, the Bulletin proposed that the government buy and sell silver coin freely at par for gold.⁶⁷ This the government was apparently either unwilling to do, or unable to do because it could not get enough gold in its coffers.

The Chamber of Commerce resolved that effective December 1, 1884 (effective date of the gold law), its members "agree to receive and pay out [treasury] certificates of deposit for all amounts over ten dollars as gold in all transactions among themselves and where practicable with others." The Bulletin praised this action because it would "prevent an injurious run for the gold forming the security for our convenient paper currency."⁶⁸ In mid-February, 1885, the chamber revoked this agreement because, among other things, the government had failed to maintain equilibrium between gold and silver in accordance with Section Four of the gold law.⁶⁹

There were many additional complaints of failure to carry out the gold law. The government made payments in silver which under the law should have been in gold. Moreover, the government refused to accept silver. Post offices in Honolulu would not take Kalakaua dollars for foreign money orders, and country post offices would not accept silver for drafts on Honolulu.⁷⁰

The Bulletin said it would support a movement to send the Kalakaua silver out of the country, and added:

The secret of the whole difficulty is that we have a silver coinage current, bearing the image and superscription of the sovereign, which is repudiated at the national Treasury because it is not worth as much as it is marked . . . on the face.⁷¹

It is clear that the government did not take appropriate action to establish the Hawaiian silver at par. But continuing newspaper attacks also undermined confidence in the coinage.

Despite indecision by the government not all persons were convinced that the monetary troubles could be attributed solely to the government or to Spreckels. A letter to the Bulletin signed "Rellaw Rex" made some incisive comments on newspaper statements that the Hawaiian silver was not worth face value:

For the 30 years or more previous to this beautiful Gold Law, every coin — say French dollars, Bolivian (very bad) and Chile, South America, etc., were taken and no word said, no growl raised, although everyone knew their value was only 75 cents to 84 cents each. All at once it is discovered that U. S. gold coin was the only standard. . . . Is it not somewhat strange that so much objection is now made to our silver coins, which are of exactly the same weight and fineness as the U. S. silver coins, when for all the 30 or 40 years before not a word was said about the coins of every kind that used to pass? It looks to me very like jealousy because the Hon. Claus Spreckels had something to do with it.⁷²

Both the Claus Spreckels and Company Bank and William G. Irwin and Company (Spreckels and Irwin) accepted the Kalakaua coinage freely at par. Moreover, they sold sixty day drafts on San Francisco for such silver at a charge of only one per cent, whereas the Bank of Bishop and Company discounted silver at twenty per cent.

The Bulletin thought free acceptance of silver by Spreckels was a partial substitute for its recommendation that the government buy and sell silver freely at par.⁷³ That newspaper also called Spreckels' action "an act of relief in the present unhappy condition of the currency."⁷⁴ The Advertiser said:

[Spreckels] has faith in the country and . . . sees that the silver question is being made a handle of by the "malignants" for party purposes and means of wounding the feelings of the King and hurting the reputation of his Ministers. . . . "Give me your silver" he says, in effect. "I am not afraid of it. You do not know what you are talking about when you tell me there is more silver money here than is needed."⁷⁵

Whatever the motives of Claus Spreckels, his show of confidence in silver coinage boosted the confidence of wage earners and small merchants in it. They knew they could get rid of it for full value at the Spreckels bank or at the Irwin company. The Advertiser thought Spreckels was entitled to the thanks of the community for stepping in when other persons were creating something of a panic over the alleged excess of silver.

A certain number of persons look upon Mr. Gibson and the Colonel [Spreckels] as twin incarnations of Mephistopheles . . . and are momentarily expecting to find the gold in their own pockets and safes turned into Kalakaua dollars.⁷⁶

As the temporary depression in Honolulu lifted, and as the price of sugar gradually rose, easing foreign exchange problems, controversy over the coinage subsided. The coins remained in general circulation through the last years of the Hawaiian monarchy and through the Provisional Government (1893-1894) and the Republic of Hawaii (1894-1898). In 1898 S. M. Damon, Finance Minister of the Republic of Hawaii, reminded the Annexation Commission of the problem of the Hawaiian coinage: "I desire to call your attention to the subject of its withdrawal from circulation and substitution by a coin that would be legal tender in all parts of the United States."⁷⁷

Despite this reminder, the Congress of the United States failed to act until 1903. Hawaii thus remained for a few years the only part of the United States where silver other than American was in general circulation and passed at par.⁷⁸ In 1903 A. N. Kopoikai, Treasurer of the Territory of Hawaii, published a notice that

After the 1st day of January, 1904, the Silver Coins . . . will, under an Act of Congress . . . entitled 'An Act relating to Silver Coinage and Silver Certificates,' cease to be a legal tender in the Territory of Hawaii.⁷⁹

Approximately $815,000 was redeemed at par for coins of the United States.⁸⁰ The balance of $185,000 had disappeared. Some of the coins were probably melted down in a large Chinatown fire in Honolulu in 1900. Others were taken away by tourists, went into the hands of collectors, or were used in the manufacture of brooches, pendants, cuff links, belt buckles, and other items of adornment. Jewelers invested in several thousand dollars worth of coin after the call for its redemption.⁸¹

Spreckels and the Coinage

Finally, attention may be turned to an analysis of the obviously important role of Spreckels in the coinage. The transaction was essentially a loan by him at a large discount. He probably paid Kalakaua silver for $500,000 in gold bonds of the kingdom and for much of the rest of the coinage he got silver certificates.

The government had to have money to meet current expenses. Failure to get this money would have further undermined the national credit. Floating a loan at par either at home or abroad was out of the question. Spreckels, the shrewd entrepreneur, merely took advantage of a market situation.

When Kalakaua came to the throne in 1874 he had the support of the Honolulu business community. Among its most prominent members were the secular descendants of the missionaries. The American part of the community felt that Kalakaua was favorable to them, and that he could be "controlled." But the King acted with more force and independence than had been expected.

Although he had no particular interest in Hawaiian nationalism, Spreckels joined forces with Kalakaua and Gibson and became the chief financial backer of the government. His price was political favor which he could use for gainful ends. Spreckels was a business man and a planter, yet he could remain largely independent of the rest of the Honolulu business community and of the planters because of his wealth. Certainly, the community had some legitimate objections to the Kalakaua coinage. But the furor over it can be considered an aspect of the businessmen's antipathy to Hawaiian nationalism, and also an aspect of their general aversion to the Kalakaua-Gibson-Spreckels regime.

Counterfeit Small Size Gold Dollars

By

JOHN J. FORD, JR., LM 250

[For some time there have been rumors of counterfeit gold pieces but it was not until John J. Ford, Jr., of the New Netherlands Coin Co. described in detail some of those he had examined in New York and the appearance of similar fakes in Chicago that we were able to get definite information. Our necessarily brief account in the February Numismatist was based largely on Ford's account and examinations made by the U. S. Secret Service, Chicago dealers and collectors. Examination of these pieces under a magnifier of twenty-power or higher is best to determine many of the tell-tale signs of counterfeiting but such things as a higher and sharper rim on the reverse and the coarser edge reeding are clues that can be seen with less powerful lenses.

A man, who said his name is Max Cohen, was picked up a few weeks ago in Dallas, Tex., by U. S. Secret Service agents for questioning in connection with the distribution of these pieces. He is free on bail pending trial on charges of misrepresentation filed against him. Cohen claimed he was unaware the coins were counterfeit, saying he had purchased them in good faith from a man in New York City. A woman, with him when he was arrested, was not held. Dallas dealers had been alerted by Ford and John Rowe, to whom the former had sent a specimen for examination. Rowe detained the suspect while another dealer notified the Secret Service.

Below is the article by John J. Ford, Jr., which we received too late for the February issue. — The Editor.]

THE wholesale price for U. S. gold dollars has more than doubled since 1955. Within the last eighteen months, the popularity of these small, attractive coins rose very rapidly, nurtured no doubt by a steady demand for their use in jewelry. There has been a resurgence of collector interest for all U. S. gold coins, with gold dollars, quarter eagles and three dollars gold leading the parade. Then, of course, interest has been fanned intermittently to white heat by the parasitical activity of the "get-rich-quick" coin speculator, that relatively modern blight upon American numismatics. With the demand for gold dollars at a record high, and the supply of coins available dwindling to a trickle, the stage was set for clandestine operators to rectify the shortage.

The latest answer to Yankee coin enthusiasts, who have been asking where some of the scarcer coins were, is the quantity production of Type One (1849-54) gold dollars. These coins are beautifully made. The dates seen in New York, to the first of the year, are, 1850, '51-O, '52, '53 and 1854. The latter two years first appeared, with the other three dates following in short order.

The fakes first appeared in New York around Thanksgiving. There were several distributors and their first customers were the jewelers making up gold coin bracelets for the Christmas trade. Next in line were the smaller coin dealers with street stores, who likewise have a heavy seasonal demand for U. S. gold coins. The larger dealers were not approached directly at all, both New Netherlands and Stack's being introduced to the coins indirectly. Ed Shapiro, the New York dealer who specializes in popular gold coins and who has a booth in the Jewelry Exchange across the street from us, heard about the counterfeit gold dollars long before he saw one. In fact, Ed was so concerned he compared coins with us for several days running. Having a head start, Shapiro never did get stuck with any of the fakes. After all, who would offer counterfeit coins to a man who was examining everything shown him with a high-power glass?

We have not been able to examine carefully all five dates of these fake dollars, but it was our good fortune to go over quite a few 1853 and 1854 coins, and to obtain high grade enlarged photographs of them with the coöperation of Stack's. All specimens seen of these two dates are from the same obverse. The obverse and reverse border beads are unusually flat, vague and indistinct, showing up clearly upon the obverse only at the lower right. The innermost points of the stars are thin and small compared to the genuine coin. The coronet beads upon Liberty's head are sloppy, vague, and tend to run together (especially above LIBER), whereas on the genuine coins they are clear and spaced apart.

The reverses on both the 1853 and 1854 fakes show a more concave field than the genuine coins. The reverse border beads on the 1853 are flat from 11:45 to about 5:00 (clockwise). A glass will reveal a tiny, pinpoint nick upon the back of the '53, centered above LA of DOLLAR, and two-thirds of the way up to the bottom right corner of the right stand of the large numeral 1. This minute defect is diagnostic and is seen on all of the 1853 counterfeits examined.

A careful examination of our enlarged photographs will show that the reverse of the false 1854 dollar was made from the reverse of a genuine coin. The base of 5 is recut, as is A in STATES. The crack extending down towards the border beads, from the base of 1 in date, through both top and bottom first leaves of the wreath at left, is indicative. The same could be said for a less clear break coming down from the base of the second T in STATES to the upper left part of the large numeral 1. The reverse border beads on the 1854 are weak and flat and the border generally resembles that of the common obverse.

These counterfeit dollars can be spotted quickly by their peculiar, granular finish, which is found upon both sides of all the fakes seen. Of course, these coins could be made with a different finish. Probably the easiest and surest way to tell the current productions from the genuine is by comparative examination of the edge reeding. The edge bars on the copies are less sharp than those upon the real dollars.

Most of our friends tend to rely upon spotting the distinctive, satiny finish of the counterfeits as against the frosty luster of the genuine uncirculated dollars. We quickly disillusioned one of them by cleaning one of the false 1853 coins and reducing its condition to EF. He couldn't spot the fake when it was mixed in with a small group of similar condition Type One dollars.

The standard weight of the genuine gold dollar is 25.8 grains. The counterfeits weigh full or are overweight. Several of them which we put on the scales checked out at 26.5 or 26.8 grains. The gold is good, perhaps too good. The diameter of the counterfeits is minutely smaller than that of the genuine coins.

Collectors and dealers should immediately report any quantity of these coins they locate to the nearest office of the Secret Service. If approached by a "salesman" of these phonies, notify your local police immediately. It is only by close coöperation with the Federal authorities that the manufacture of these coins can be discouraged. It is not only possible, but quite probable, that if these false Type One gold dollars can continue to be sold in this country, the perpetrators of this swindle (and swindle it is), will continue on to Type Two and Type Three dollars, and then on to quarter eagles, if not three dollars gold. —

"If the Treasury were to fill old bottles with bank notes, bury them at suitable depths in disused coal mines which are then filled up to the surface with town rubbish, and leave to private enterprise on well tried principles of laissez-faire to dig the notes up again . . . there need be no more unemployment and with the help of the repercussions, the real income of the community would probably become a good deal larger than it is." — J. M. KEYNES

Coin Collection Gift to University

An important private coin collection, which grew from a few large copper coins given to a ten-year-old boy seventy years ago, has been given to Stetson University, DeLand, Fla. This collection was made by Edward B. Alling, A.N.A. No. 18319, Orange City, Chairman of the Board of the Florida Bank at DeLand. The gift was made in the name of Edward B. and Lillian A. Alling.

The coins will be displayed in a special room of the new library building on the campus, funds for which are being secured in a campaign now in progress throughout Florida.

This collection, appraised at $28,000, will be of value for students in the Merrill Program of American Studies, American history, and economics. It will be a unique feature of the new library. Within the collection is the history of America's monetary system, as it includes complete sets of gold, silver, and copper coins.

Some of the pieces in the collection are American gold coins, quarter eagle Indian head set, Saint-Gaudens Roman numeral double eagle, 1879 stella, 1851 Humbert octagonal slug, an "1804 silver dollar" which Alling "believes . . . was originally 1801 with the numeral 1 built up to appear as a 4." Many "name" pieces, as the widow's mite, tribute penny, form part of the collection.

The gift was accepted on behalf of the University by its president, Dr. J. Ollie Edmunds.

Who Knows?

Dear Mr. Bradfield:

Why all the furor about 1959 cents? Did someone goof? Was there some defect in material or workmanship? Speculators have moved proof sets off the front page and are now selling these cents for 10¢ for singles; $5.00 for rolls; $300.00 for bags.

NATIONAL COIN WEEK, APRIL 24-30

Theme: Why it pays to be a numismatist

There are many fields in the art of numismatics. Collectors specialize in gold coins, mint errors, medals of historical events and famous people, paper money. Whatever your choice, it can readily be displayed in such a manner that it will entice noncollectors to participate in our most worthwhile hobby. Now is the time to reserve locations for your favorite collection. Banks, department stores, museums and public libraries are ideal locations, bearing in mind that the display should be placed in spots where you have adequate protection from pilfering. Exhibits should be locked in show cases and insured. The A.N.A. cannot assume responsibility for the safety of your exhibit.

Local newspapers, TV and radio stations can give your area publicity for National Coin Week, April 24-30. Local service clubs also welcome talks on the subject of numismatics. Remember, these events bring points in your favor. Don't forget to have a sign along with each display, letting those persons interested, know the name of your club and when and where meetings are held.

A.N.A. President on Philippine Book Campaign

Our campaign to replace the library of the Philippine Numismatic and Antiquarian Society is entering its final stages. Deadline for closing the book collection will be April thirtieth. Local and area clubs can participate by donating a book or a check covering cost of a book. Checks should be not less than two dollars and need not be greater than five dollars.

Please keep in mind:

- a. The Filipinos were our most loyal allies in World War II and are among our best friends in Asia today.
- b. The library of the Philippine Numismatic and Antiquarian Society was lost when Manila went up in flames during World War II.
- c. The members of the Philippine society, with limited income, have been unable to replace the loss and have functioned without their library for the last fourteen years.
- d. Books and donations should be forwarded to the committee chairman, Robert G. McArthur, 2377 Grand Vista Pl., Oakland 1, Calif.
- e. A list of clubs and individuals making donations will be forwarded to the Philippine organization and publicized in The Numismatist.

We hope every A.N.A. club will proudly share in this campaign.

It is my experience that those who are most positive about political problems are able to be positive only because they do not know all the relevant facts. Those who are most harsh in their judgments are able to be harsh for that same reason. When the whole of a problem is known, solutions become excessively difficult and judgments are not easily made. (John Foster Dulles, in a speech before the fifth annual All-Jesuit Alumni dinner, 1955; quoted in Reader's Digest.)

NEW OR RECENT ISSUES

Described by ERNST KRAUS

It is the important duty of The Numismatist to record and illustrate new coins. To accomplish this, members in the United States and abroad are invited to submit new issues to Ernst Kraus, Apt. NOTES FROM YOUR LIBRARIAN

We have many books to help those entering "National Coin Week." This important A.N.A. event is only one month away. Remember, the story that you tell with your display is more important than a large coin or currency display that has no message for the viewer.

ROLLS - ROLLS - ROLLS - With over thirty years of experience behind me, I cannot help but wonder what this roll speculating or hoarding is all about? Surely, many of the buyers of these rolls of common coins in quantity cannot be considered numismatists. It is my sincere opinion that buyers of rolls have been sold the proverbial bucket of gold at the end of the rainbow. I would not like to see any of my children stuck $3.50 or more for an ordinary 1950-D unc. nickel for his Jefferson album. I am afraid that rolls of this coin will suddenly be dumped into the market and the price revert to a sensible figure around $1.00 each.

I could name many other coins likewise overrated. It seems that many of the new collectors are unaware of the great bargain prices of the really sound and often classical older coins: Indian cents, gold, early liberty halves, commemoratives, proofs, proof sets, large cents, etc. — EARL SCHILL

Confederate Treasury Notes:

HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS

By

PHILIP H. CHASE, A.N.A. No. 4286

Copyright 1960 by Philip H. Chase

THE APPROACH of the centennial of the "War between the States," 1861-1865—now only a year away—has been marked by a great resurgence of interest in the paper money of the "Lost Cause," particularly the Confederate Treasury notes. Naturally considerable attention has been directed to the types of notes, to their rarity and condition. This can be expected to continue with the general collector who is striving for perfection and completeness of a kind.

Many collectors, however, become interested in another way—to study the technical and historical background of these notes. Although such study began no later than 1867, only two years after the end of the conflict, inquisitive collectors have continued through the years to uncover additional significant information. The recently published index to The Numismatist for 1939-1958 confirms this fact. Discoveries of new material and research productive of valuable background information can confidently be expected from time to time.

Extensive Confederate Treasury records and correspondence fortunately survived and have been indexed and summarized in various ways. These original sources provide information that often authoritatively can settle questions of authenticity, scarcity, etc. In addition, puzzling questions about complex varieties, bogus and counterfeit notes, the initiation of new note designs, and the non-use or disappearance of notes or plates, have been solved because of clues in these priceless sources. Such usefulness is by no means ended, nor is it limited to the exploration of small differences that interest perhaps only specialists.

A more consistent, logical approach to the classification of types and varieties of notes can be gained by greater reliance on these records. Of particular importance is the need for review of the varieties of certain types of Confederate notes so that due recognition will be given to variations of a major nature and emphasis avoided on those less significant, some of which are trivial or almost meaningless.

So new discoveries, research and original Confederate records can throw valuable light on both types and varieties, of interest to the general collector and to the specialist. Expressed in another way, the former, travelling along the popular highway of types, rarity and condition, can expect new glimpses as he journeys on; the latter can explore many byways on which he will find answers to puzzles and mysteries of Confederate currency still unsolved.

The above remarks are a prologue to a number of articles planned for The Numismatist. These will present conclusions and observations of the author from his study of Confederate Treasury notes and interest in this field for more than a quarter of a century.

Philip H. Chase, Wynne, Pa., has been a member of the American Numismatic Association since 1933 and is the author of many articles which have been published in The Numismatist. The author of Confederate Treasury Notes published in 1947, he is a specialist in the field of Confederate currency.

Central States Convention

The Central States Numismatic Society convention to be held at Detroit's Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel on April 29th, 30th, and May 1 is expected to be one of the most enjoyable, well-operated and well-attended numismatic events in 1960. The Convention Committee has engaged the entire fourth floor of the Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel, well known throughout the country for its spacious appointments, delectable cuisine and excellent service. Activities will be centered in the hotel's beautiful Grand Ballroom. In view of the anticipated record attendance, it is recommended that hotel reservations be made promptly.

Exhibit applications and rules may be obtained from Henry R. Burns, Exhibits Chairman, 15486 Auburn, Detroit 23, Mich. In addition to the usual exhibit classifications a separate category has been established for gold coins. Although gold coins may be included with other coins in other classifications (such as United States, foreign or ancient), any exhibit containing predominantly gold coins will be placed in the gold category.

Included among the numerous convention attractions will be the dealers bourse (consisting of eighty-two dealers from all parts of the United States), a three-session auction of excellent material conducted by French's, exhibits by leading numismatists of the United States, banquet and special ladies activities. The convention will also afford an opportunity of visiting with old friends, making new ones, acquiring numismatic knowledge and having fun in general.

Applications for remaining bourse space should be submitted to Ben Stocker, Bourse Chairman, 19953 Prest Ave., Detroit 35. Requests for information not relating to exhibits and bourse should be submitted to the General Chairman, Paul F. Schilling, 17304 Lahser, Detroit 19.

Western Samoa's Currency — Clause 39 of the Samoa Amendment Act, passed by the New Zealand parliament in 1959, provides that, on and after a date to be fixed by proclamation by the Council of State of Western Samoa, the Bank of Western Samoa may make and issue banknotes, according to the Reserve Bank of New Zealand Bulletin, December, 1959. Until that date, the Council of State is authorized to make and issue treasury notes, full liability for which will be assumed by the Bank of Western Samoa when its own notes become legal tender. Treasury notes will remain legal tender for twelve months, after which they can be redeemed only in notes of the Bank of Western Samoa or legally current coin. The currency, coin, and legal tender in Western Samoa are to be the same as that of New Zealand, except as may be expressly provided either in the Act or by Ordinance. Until the date appointed for the issue of notes by the Bank of Western Samoa, the New Zealand Minister of Finance may fix a rate of exchange between Western Samoa and New Zealand. Thereafter, the rate may be fixed by the Council of State of Western Samoa.

ISRAEL'S NEW COINS

By

LEO KADMAN, TEL-AVIV

New Denomination

IN 1959, the Israel government decided to replace the division of the pound into 1000 prutot by its division into 100 agurot. The name of this new denomination, agura (plural agurot), is mentioned in the First Book of Samuel: agurat kesef – a piece of silver.

With the ratification of the new currency ordinance by the Israel Parliament, the issue of a series of new coins became necessary. The

The types are as follows:

- 1 agura – three ears of barley
- 2 agurot – bunch of grapes
- 5 agurot – three ripe pomegranates
- 10 agurot – palm tree
- 25 agurot – lyre with three strings

The future addition of a fifty agurot piece is contemplated.

The symbol of the three ears of barley originated on a coin of King Agrippa I (38-44 A.D.); the palm tree and the three pomegranates (in their half ripe form) are found on the shekels of the Jewish-Roman Shown here are the obverses of Israel's new coins: 1. One agura (three ears of barley). 2. Five agurot (three ripe pomegranates). 3. Ten agurot (palm tree). 4. Twenty-five agurot (lyre with three strings).

Advisory Committee for the design of coins, medals and banknotes of the State of Israel was entrusted with the task of selecting the designs of the new coins.

This committee decided to use for the agurot the same symbols of the ancient Jewish coinage, which already appeared on the coins of the pruta denomination. However, instead of merely imitating the ancient coins, the agurot coinage will show the same symbols but in modern conception.

The symbols are within an incused square, as known from the most beautiful ancient Greek coins of the fifth century B.C. The name Israel appears – within the square – horizontally in Hebrew and vertically in Arabic. The symbol itself is shown on the right side of the field.

War (66-70 A.D.), while the bunch of grapes and the lyre are taken from the coinage of Bar-Kokhba, the most beautiful Jewish coins ever issued.

The reverses of the new coins show the denomination and the year of issue. For the convenience of the public the new coins are smaller in size and lighter in weight than the corresponding ones of the prutat denomination. The one agura coin is of aluminum on a scalloped planchet, other four are of bronze-aluminum on round planchets.

The agurot coins were designed by Rothschild and Lipman of Tel-Aviv, while the details of the designs were decided upon by a sub-committee and three members: Prof. Igal Yadin, the archaeologist, Dr. Spitzer, the expert for script-types, and Leo Kadman of the Numismatic Society.

New Commemorative

Beginning with its Tenth Anniversary, Israel strikes each year two commemorative coins: A silver coin of five pounds issued on every Independence Day, and, a cupronickel coin of one pound to appear on every Hannukah. The fourth of these coins has just been issued. It commemorates the fifty year of jubilee of Deganya — the mother of the kvutzot — and with this, the collective agricultural settlement. Exactly fifty years ago, a group of some twenty young men and women settled down on a stretch of desolate land infested by swamps on the spot where the Jordan river leaves the Sea of Galilee. This small group was to become the first kvutza — the first collective agricultural settlement based on absolute equality, mutual help and common responsibility.

Today the desolate spot had become a blooming place and Deganya (a name derived from the Hebrew word dagan — corn) embedded in orchards and gardens is surrounded by other flourishing settlements of the Jordan Valley. The example set fifty years ago by that small group has been followed by more than a hundred thousand men and women who have covered the land of Israel with hundreds of collective settlements from Dan to Beersheba and further on, down to the shores of the Red Sea.

The new one pound* coin issued in commemoration of the founding of Deganya shows on its pictorial side the settlement situated on the shore of the Sea of Galilee, its famous cedars and palm trees, its orchards and houses. The inscription reads: L'yovel Hahityashvut Hakibutz ("For the Jubilee of the Collective Agricultural Settlement — Deganya"). The second side of the coin bears the name of Israel in Hebrew and Arabic and the dates, 1910-1960.

The design of the coin, also by Rothschild and Lipman of Tel-Aviv, was chosen by the Advisory Committee from various proposals received from artists and designers who participated in a competition. A very limited number of specimens have been minted as proof coins, distinguishable by the Hebrew letter m between the two cedars.

Book Reviews

"Colonial and Commonwealth Coins" by L. V. W. Wright, Harrap, London, illus., 8vo., cloth, 236 pp., 50s.

As it has been over sixty years since the publication of a book covering the subject of British colonial and commonwealth coinage, this book should receive a world-wide welcome. The author has separated his work into seven groups: European, African, Indian, East Indian, Australian, North American and West Indian. In each group he has illustrated every type of coin, thus eliminating extensive descriptions.

American collectors will be especially interested in the North American section as the author has included all of the coins issued previous to the Revolution. This is composed of the coins of New England, Massachusetts, Virginia and Maryland and has also included the Mark Newby, Carolina, Rosa Americana and Plantation coinages.

The only fault that this reviewer can find with the book is in the illustrations which are not up to the standards usually found in British publications. Many of the illustrations are not easily deciphered due to a glare from the coins in the original photographs. This is particularly noticeable in the more recent coins, especially the bronzes. Apparently the illustrations were made from direct photographs of the coins which in a new or uncirculated coin tend to glare. It is this reviewer's opinion that better illustrations could have been made by using photographs of casts. — P. K. ANDERSON.

"Greek Coins and Their Values" by H. A. Seaby and J. Kozolibski, London 1959, 157 pp., 16 sh. (ca. $2.25).

This new addition to Seaby's publications is most welcome. It starts with six short chapters on "Collecting Greek Coins," their "Origins," "Types," "Deities," "Weight Standards," and "Datings," followed by a list of reference books, and the catalog proper. The latter is based on Gilbert Askew's Catalogue of Greek Coins published in 1951, to which the present authors added "many additional items not included in the earlier work."

We believe this new book will find many new friends, and for another edition we submit some suggestions which might be taken into consideration.

The trend in recent years is in the direction of finest style and state of preservation (in this order). This implies much higher prices for certain series which seem to be neglected in the present issue. We think, for example, of the coinage of Heracleia, Lucania, Thurium, Cephaloedium and Panormus, Gelas, Himera, Leontini, Naxos, Syracuse and others. Additional inclusions from auction sales in recent years, both in the United States and Europe, would show a clearer picture of the evolution in prices.

To illustrate these points, only two examples are given. Naxos (Sicily) appears with only one hemidrachm, in spite of Cahn's book on the coinage of this city, and its beautiful coins with the head of Dionysus and the seated Silen. Or the staters of Locri Opuntii, of which there is only one "good F." specimen, appears with a price of £10, although in the Bement sale (1923) superb specimens already fetched up to $1,000.00.

It is unfortunate that the majority of the conventional reference books is out of print, and practically inaccessible to most collectors. For this reason more use should be made of available publications, such as Brett's Catalogue of Greek Coins in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, the various Sylloge Nummorum Graecorum published in London, Copenhagen and Germany, and the many specialized publications of the American Numismatic Society, New York.

The now generally adopted rule is to describe as obverse the side struck with the anvil die, and as reverse the side struck with the punch die. With this in mind a correction of Nos. 367/368, 388, 410, 413 and possibly others should be made.

Very useful are a number of maps distributed throughout the catalog, as well as a number of text illustrations and four plates. Some additions to these in a future edition would enhance the attractiveness of this publication.

We are sure that this book will win many friends for Greek numismatics. — EDWARD GANS

"1960 Catalogue of Hawaiian Coins, Tokens and Paper Money," by Maurice M. Gould and Kenneth Bressett, Whitman Publishing Co., Racine, Wis., 1960, illus., priced, 46 pp., flexible black cover, 5 1/4" by 7 1/4", $1.00.

Ever since it became evident that Hawaii's campaign to escape from American territorial status to that of a sovereign state would be successful, interest in her coinage has been growing. And when she finally became the fiftieth state last year, numismatists probed deeper into her monetary history. Most American coin collectors knew of the 1883 coinage and the Hawaiian overprints of World War II but little else of the Territory's other media of exchange. The everyday collector could justifiably plead "not guilty" to a charge of ignorance on the subject, for only scattered literature has been available.

Students were, however, engaged in sifting through all references they could find and the results are now beginning to show. Numismatists were working separately on the problem but sooner or later individual paths were bound to cross. When they did, in true scholarly fashion ideas were exchanged and single endeavors were pooled to bring about an accurate literature in this field.

The combined efforts and knowledge of two of these researchers, Dr. Jacob Adler, Professor of Economics at the University of Hawaii, and A. Kosoff, prominent coin dealer on the West Coast, are being published in the excellent series which began in the February, 1960, Numismatist. Another team, formed by Maurice Gould, well known east coast dealer, and Kenneth Bressett, a thorough student of American coins and a recent addition to the staff of Whitman Publishing Co., has produced this inexpensive, illustrated history and priced catalog of the exchange media of the Kingdom, Republic and Territory of Hawaii, now a state.

Thus another avenue is opened to collectors of Americana. This booklet is recommended to those who are fagged by the uninspiring search for rolls and proof sets. Some of the items in this guide are rare and have never before been published. Others are noncollectible. As this catalog is the initial attempt at pricing the Hawaiian series, difficulties in assigning estimates to rare pieces have been encountered. Rather than listing wild guesses in these instances, the authors have very sensibly applied the rarity table used by Dr. Sheldon in his Early American Cents and Penny Whimsy.

Illustrations are backed up by textual matter on Hawaii's currency, from the early barter and odd money stage, through the periods of foreign monies, Kauai cardboard scrip, Ladd and Company's $5.00 bills, Rev. Andrews and his small notes issued at Lahainaluna, Torbert scrip, provisional government notes and the 1895 bills of the Republic. Best known, of course, are the cent of 1847 and the Kalakaua coins of 1883 but there will be a rising interest in the various patterns of which many coin collectors are not aware.

Congratulations to the authors and the publisher for a fine beginning. Although succeeding editions will undoubtedly see added items as new discoveries are made and will be revised to correct any errors in this first edition, don't wait. Add it to your library now. — ELSTON G. BRADFIELD

RENEWAL OF A.N.A. CHARTER

The present fifty-year charter of the American Numismatic Association, granted by the U. S. Congress in 1912, will be renewed under a bill to be introduced in the Senate during the current session. Charters granted or renewed by Congress are usually limited to those American organizations devoted to charitable, educational, patriotic, or civic improvement purposes.

In the field of numismatics our association has made noteworthy educational contributions. The Numismatist, now read by over twenty-thousand members, carries significant articles on coins, paper money, medals, and tokens by American and foreign scholars. At the annual convention awards are granted to the best papers presented during the year. Our extensive library facilities encourage research in many fields of numismatics.

A National Coin Week instituted and sponsored by the A.N.A. aids in emphasizing the cultural and educational value of numismatics. At national conventions the educational forum, with its panel of distinguished speakers, and the extensive exhibits of coins, both attract large crowds. To encourage interest in coinage as a primary source in a study of the past, the A.N.A. maintains money displays in the Joslyn Museum in Omaha and in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C.

At the international level our association has actively supported President Eisenhower's People-to-People program. Book donations to foreign numismatic societies and an A.N.A. sponsored trip by President Dodson to visit European numismatic groups, including those in Poland and the U.S.S.R., are reflections of our association's keen interest in using coinage to help promote good will between nations.

Jointly with the Canadian Numismatic Association our A.N.A. is sponsoring the first international numismatic convention to be held in the New World. This is scheduled for Detroit in 1962.

In January while attending a People-to-People meeting in New York City, President Dodson and Vernon Brown, our A.N.A. Curator, made tape recordings on numismatics for broadcasting over the Armed Services Network of the Voice of America program. George Vanderwende, a retired State Department official, will serve as chairman of an international coin club exchange program to be instituted by the A.N.A., also participated in this broadcast.

These are some of the important educational and cultural activities to be used as justification for favorable Congressional action on the bill to renew the A.N.A. Charter.

Currency in Nepal — The Finance Minister of Nepal makes it clear that the government's aim is to make Nepali currency the sole medium of exchange in Nepal. Hitherto, the Indian rupee has also circulated in southern Nepal, the official rate of exchange having been fixed in August, 1958 at 100 Indian rupees to 150 Nepali rupees.

Yes, Gold Pieces Are Melted!

Collectors have sometimes wondered if the Treasury Department melted into bullion all the gold coins turned in. That the answer is in the affirmative can be taken from the following.

Positive evidence that the coins held by the Treasury Department in 1934 were melted can be found in the daily reports of gold on hand for January 31, 1934 and February 1, 1934.

Gold holdings for January 31, 1934 was reported as $4,034,867,780.67 while that of February 1, 1934 was $7,018,263,925.70, a notation being made in the February report that the sum included the increment of $2,805,512,060.87. On June 30, 1934 the gold holdings were $7,856,074,225.67.

Interesting also was a special notation in the title of the January 31 report that it was condition as of 3:00 P.M. The last line of the Act of January 31, 1934 states it was effective as of 3:10 P.M., January 31, 1934. Reports of condition are made as of the time of close of business which is 4:30 P.M. and this is the only report stating an earlier time.

In a Treasury bulletin of July 12, 1955, reporting on "Increment resulting from the reduction in the weight of the gold dollar," an allocation against the increment is made of $2,175,121.93 for melting loss of gold coin! The increment is shown as $2,819,474,865.98. The increase of almost fourteen million over the February 1 report is probably the results of coins turned into the Treasury at face after that date. — NATHAN GOLD, A.N.A. No. 22039

The First Ibero-American Exposition

JUST A YEAR ago there was held in Barcelona, Spain, the first Ibero-American Exposition of Numismatics and Medallie Art under the auspices of the Spanish government. It had been authorized by Generalissimo Franco's decree of July 10, 1957.

With the coöperation of the Sociedad Ibero-Americana de Estudios Numismáticos, the Asociación Numismática Española, the Sociedade Portuguesa de Numismática and the Fábrica Nacional de Moneda y Timbre of Madrid, an executive committee was appointed. Headed by the Hon. Don Luis Auguet y Durán, Director of the Madrid Mint, assisted by a staff of prominent men such as Drs. José Amoros Barra, Felipe Mateu y Llopis, Luis González Robles, Antonio Beltrán Martínez, Juan Ainaud de Lasarte, Damiao Péres, Carlos de Noronha, Fernando Gimeno Rúa, Carlos Ruiz de Larramendi and F. Xavier Calicó Rebull, the committee worked long hours in the laborious but fruitful task of contacting the numismatic world. As a result, there were 201 private exhibits, ninety-eight of national scope and numerous others of no minor importance, displayed under the caption "out of contest" which did not, therefore, compete for the prizes offered.

The participation of the Government of Spain and many local communities as well as the governments of Portugal, Great Britain, Belgium, France, Switzerland, Italy, The Netherlands and Sweden from the "Old Continent" and the eminent contributions of universities, academies, museums, mints, banking firms, and numismatic societies, made possible the great success attained. Our own continents were also richly represented by the United States of America, Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Paraguay, Perú, San Salvador and Uruguay.

The exposition was held in the spacious salons of the ancient Royal Palace, within the walled Roman sector, portions of which date back to the third century, enlarged and restored by the Counts of Barcelona in the eleventh century and by the Kings of Aragon during the thirteenth century. It is an historical spot where Ferdinand and Isabella received Columbus upon his return on May 5, 1493 after the discovery of America.

The program was extremely well planned, divided into three main categories and several subdivisions:

- Numismatics: a) Ancient
- b) Medieval
- c) Modern

Each of these in turn was divided to

- I — Museums and organizations
- II — Specialists
- III — General collectors

Medallie art: a) Mint issues

- b) Commercial enterprises
- c) Societies specializing in medals
- d) Individual technical specialists
- e) The artists themselves

Bibliography and Documents:

- a) From archives, libraries and museums
- b) Owned and displayed by private individuals
- c) Unpublished books or theses on numismatics

There were over 300,000 specimens, many extremely valuable and of great rarity, exhibited in specially constructed cases, each with its own indirect fluorescent illumination. Some were horizontally arranged, others vertically and a few hung on available wall space, but all were designed so that the exhibit contained therein was at a slight angle, thus facilitating its study. Security guards were on duty around the clock, yet every exhibit was insured against all risks and the amount of the policy totalled five million dollars.

In memory of Tomás Francisco Prieto, the master engraver and founder of the Academy of Medallic Art in Spain (1752), three prizes were bestowed upon present day medallists: The first carried a 25,000 pesetas award and a gold medal; the second, a silver medal and 15,000 pesetas and the last a bronze medal along with 5,000 pesetas. For the other categories – excepting official institutions and members of the committee of award – there were four prizes for each subdivision. These were impartially conferred and in instances of a tie that could not be decided by a second secret ballot, with all graciousness the foreign exhibitor was chosen.

Instructive lectures were given by Drs. Felipe Mateu y Llopis of Barcelona, Alexandre Ferreira Barros of Oporto, Damiao Péres of Lisbon and Coimbra, Joaquín María de Navascués of Madrid and lastly, but actually the first read, that of Dr. Humberto F. Burzio of Argentina. The latter received an inscribed silver tray and a well earned bronze medal made especially by the Madrid Mint, 132 millimeters in diameter and weighing 1,200 grams. On one side it bears the arms of Barcelona, the date: 1958 and the legend I ESPOSICION IBEROAMERICANA DE NUMISMATICA Y MEDALLISTICA. The other side is allegorical: The figure of Minerva (or Athena), the Goddess of Wisdom, holding in her right hand the scales of justice with an owl perched upon its handle; the legends HOMENAJE and the name of Dr. Burzio signify the tribute rendered to his knowledge and accomplishments.

Two ancient, hand operated coining presses, the arms of which extended six feet on either side and bearing a heavy weight on each end, were exhibited. A temporary mint was established, three automatic presses having been brought from Madrid. One of them was manufactured in Barcelona in 1856 and has been in operation for over a century. Coins of 50, 25 and 5 pesetas were struck every minute that the Exposition was open. These carried the BA mint mark (illustrated on pages 400 and 406, The Numismatist, April, 1959). Another innovation was the demonstration of the making of paper money, from the manufacture of the paper itself to the finished product.

As the number of displays received far exceeded the capacity of the Royal Palace, adjacent buildings, also of ancient lineage, were made ready. Thus the Palace of Padellas, the Salon of Tinell and the chapel of Santa Agueda were used, and it is possible that the walls separating one from the other were torn down to create a passageway. The Zecca de Roma had a splendid display of 509 pontifical medals. The most distant exhibitor was Dr. Bantug from the Philippines.

The Executive Committee published seventeen illustrated bulletins in pamphlet form, keeping the numismatic world informed of the events transpiring at the Exposition. Number Ten is dedicated to the United States, the American Numismatic Society, the American Numismatic Association and contains a biographical sketch of Dr. George C. Miles. Both the American Numismatic Society and the Smithsonian Institution had beautiful exhibits that were placed at the very entrance of the Royal Palace, occupying a very large room and completely filling it. The arrangement was artistic and caused many favorable comments.

The Exposition opened November 24, 1958 and was scheduled to close on the ninth of the following month, but because of the interest created, it was extended until December 16, 1958.

At the inauguration ceremonies held in the Salon del Ciento (City Hall of Barcelona) high dignitaries of the Church and State, the diplomatic corps, the press and prominent citizens were assembled, and with Don Luis Auguet y Durán presiding, he called upon Dr. Alberto F. Pradeau of Los Angeles, California to deliver the opening address as representative of the United States of America and Mexico. Days later, Dr. Pradeau received a medal and a silver tray, similar to that given to Dr. Burzio, in recognition of his many contributions to the field of numismatics.

The Exposition hours were from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 4 to 7:30 p.m. daily; the admission fee was five pesetas per person for each session with an average attendance of 4,000. Nothing was left undone that could make this international affair a popular one. The railroad fares from all parts of Spain were reduced. For weeks the press advertised it and the City of Barcelona, using the radio, television, loud speakers centrally placed and thousands of attractive signs, urged the people to attend. Under one pretext or another there were numerous banquets and in all, the spirit of friendship prevailed. — ELSTON G. BRADFIELD

"THE ARIES SALE"

FABULOUS PUBLIC AUCTION

PART ONE

FRIDAY EVENING, MARCH 25

FOREIGN GOLD COINS

Consisting of 683 Gold Coins of the World — this is one of the outstanding Public Auction sales ever to be held in certain series.

The French section consists of over 150 Louis d'Or from virtually all mints — nearly all uncirculated. Together with representations of all denominations and mints of the 19th and 20th Century.

The Papal-Vatican section is outstanding. Coins of England and Sardinia in quality and quantity never-before-heard-of. Many small and seldom seen countries and coins — all offered individually at Public Auction Sale.

The United States coins offered in this part one consist of a Panama-Pacific set — offered individually and several choice Pioneer Gold Coins.

PART TWO

SATURDAY AFTERNOON, MARCH 26

UNITED STATES COINS

Consisting of about 900 lots, this section of the sale warrants the attention of all collectors. It is particularly noteworthy in that it has an extensive selection of early United States coins, particularly those struck before 1820.

The Bronze and Copper coins include Cents and Half Cents of 1793 together with many other scarce and desirable "type" coins.

The Silver Coins from the Half Dimes to the Silver Dollars is an offering that has not been duplicated in many years gone by. Early coins from 1794 to 1807 in all series, in all ranges of condition.

The Gold coins, from the Quarter Eagle on might prove to be one of the best offerings of the year. Particularly rich in early $5.00 and $10.00 coins, the offering should attract many "type" coin collectors. Also interesting to note are the many different dates and mintmarks in the Five Dollar Liberty Head series.

TO SUM IT UP — THIS SALE IS FABULOUS

Catalogues sent upon request as long as supply lasts.

THE NUMISMATIC REVIEW

With the first issue of our Price List for 1960 we have made a slight change in terminology that we would like to bring to your attention. We have changed the "mast-head" to read "Coin Galleries Numismatic Review." Inasmuch as we include articles about coins, the title of "Fixed Price List" was an inadequate description of our publication. While we want to sell coins, we also feel that our contacts with the Collector should not be based upon a purely commercial relationship alone. We are firm believers in the value of Coin Collecting as a hobby. We believe that the Collector, to get the fullest value and satisfaction from his coins, must bring both knowledge and imagination to bear on his acquisitions. To this end we have tried to publish material that will be interesting and informative. Many of you have written us in praise of our efforts and for this moral support we are most grateful. The Numismatic Review continues as before, with your support. We will continue to list coins and do our best to bring you reading material that will help you understand your coins, or perhaps open up new avenues of collecting for you.

THE DOLLARS OF THE MIDDLE AGES

The most familiar gold coin in Medieval Europe was the Byzantine Solidus, frequently referred to as the "bezant." It will be remembered that for all practical purposes the minting of gold ceased in the West after the beginning of the Fifth Century. In spite of the barter economy that grew up after the decline of Rome, there was still some need for gold in all large transactions. The availability of the Byzantine gold coins, their consistent purity and honest weight all served to explain why they were adopted as an international gold currency. One historian has christened these pieces, "The Dollars of the Middle Ages." Anyone who was lucky enough to have been brought up on a diet of Sir Walter Scott, instead of TV and comic books, will remember having encountered the bezant in "Ivanhoe," a good Medieval Romance well worth reading today.

We have just acquired a small number of Solidi struck by the East Roman Emperor Justin II, son of the famous Justinian I, codifier of Roman Law, and his spectacular wife, Theodora. They are all Uncirculated and choice. We feel able to offer them at an attractive price. Here is your chance to get one of these historic pieces, at no great expense. Every Medieval Numismatist should have at least one.

A NEW KIND OF COIN ALBUM The Library of Coins

Complete visibility and complete protection, the two most-wanted features of a coin album, are presented for the first time by The Library of Coins. Bound like books, handsome and compact, each Library of Coins volume displays and protects its coins between two sliding panels of clear, tough plastic. Each coin "porthole" has printed next to it full data on mint mark and quantity minted. Each volume contains a brief background story on the coins, giving both the novice and advanced collector helpful information, including a listing of the rare dates.

Measuring $8\frac{1}{4}'' \times 6\frac{1}{4}''$, the volumes are low priced, sturdily manufactured, and permanently bound in a variety of identifying colors for the various denominations. Their compact size permits the storing of a large coin collection in very small space. Backbones are clearly gold stamped so that they are as readily identifiable as are books.

The Library of Coins represents the first major innovation in high grade coin albums in more than 30 years, and was several years in development. Designed by numismatists, the Library of Coins is designed to satisfy the needs and desires of numismatists. Write for descriptive circular on the Library of Coins.

JOHNSON'S APPROVAL SHIPMENTS

For twenty years now, busy people in the trades, business and professions, have found my approval shipments the easy, convenient way to build up nice coin collections. Start in now getting the best coin values, with the least bother possible.

Simply send me a list of the coins you need, in any series Half Cents to Gold coins, or Paper Money. Or, a list of the coins you already have, if shorter. You will receive a selection on approval, on which you pay $10.00 or more a month on coins you keep. I send more coins as you make payments. You can stop shipments any time you do not want to continue. If you have no special series in mind, here are a few suggestions:

TYPE SET OF REGULAR U. S. COINS: One coin of each different design (not dates or mintmarks), from Half Cents to Silver Dollars. Album to hold the Type set will come with your first shipment.

TYPE SET OF U. S. GOLD COINS: Different designs of gold coins from Gold Dollars to $20.00 pieces. A beautiful plastic holder for the type set with your first shipment.

FOREIGN SILVER DOLLARS: One Silver Dollar from each different country. Travel the world in your easy chair, from Afghanistan to Zanzibar. Album to hold the dollars, with first shipment.

COMMEMORATIVE HALF DOLLARS: The number one series in United States coins, a must for every collection. After first shipment, you can decide if you want to work on a Type set, or the Complete set. Incidentally, I believe I buy and sell more Commemorative coins than any other dealer, so if you have a set, part set, or any quantity you want to sell, just wrap them up and send to me for my best offer and check. Coins will be held intact awaiting your O.K.

UNITED STATES PAPER MONEY: Beautifully engraved notes, issued from 1862 to date. All illustrated and valued in the Friedberg Paper Money Book, which I would be glad to send on approval if you do not have a copy as yet.

ALSO INDIAN CENTS, LINCOLN CENTS, NICKELS, DIMES, QUARTERS, HALF DOLLARS, DOLLARS, CANADIAN COINS, FOREIGN GOLD COINS, FRACTIONAL CURRENCY, etc.

PURCHASES: Send collections or duplicates you wish to sell, by Registered Mail or Railway Express. I will figure them up and submit best offer and check. Then, will hold coins for your reply. If no deal, coins will be returned fully insured.

PENN-OHIO NUMISMATIC SOCIETY

SPRING CONVENTION

MARCH 18-19-20

DESHLER-HILTON HOTEL COLUMBUS, OHIO

The Columbus Numismatic Society, host club for the meeting, has planned a fine program. Columbus is the capitol of Ohio and has been one of the pioneers in numismatics in the Middle West. The city affords adequate hotel and transportation facilities. The Host Club has the desire and the experience to put on a fine convention, having conducted many Ohio State and Central States meetings, as well as the National A.N.A. Convention.

More than a hundred of the country's better-known dealers will be on hand to buy and sell, or just get acquainted, and some of the country's finest collections will be on display, competing for awards in all categories.

NOTE: The Security Room will be opened Wednesday, March 16th, for the early birds. Most of the dealers and many collectors come several days ahead of time and many of the biggest deals are made before the Convention starts.

We have also been informed that the ladies (numismatic widows), will be well entertained. And not the least of the attractions will be a fine

Latest list is still available, and as usual is free for the asking. Many of the items in the list are still available, so you still have time to get in on the ground floor.

Just purchased a small collection of Barber Half-dollars, which includes many of the tough to get dates. Now is the time to get the dates and mintmarks that you need to fill those empty spaces, while prices are still quite reasonable.

THEY ARE GOING FAST!

The small group of specimens we had of the . . .

1858 INDIAN CENT

1858 Indian head cent; obverse with Indian head, reverse with laurel wreath . . . identical to the regular issue 1859 Indian cent in all respects except the date.

The 1858 Indian head cent may easily be compared with the 1856 flying eagle cent. They are both transitional patterns issued in extremely small quantities a year before each type was coined in quantity for circulation. In our opinion the 1858 Indian cent is the more desirable of the two. The 1858 Indian cent is the first coin of a series (Indian cents 1858-1909) which lasted over fifty years. In addition, from both a collecting and an investment standpoint, the Indian cents have always been one of the most popular and attractive U.S. series. In contrast, the 1856 flying eagle cent prefaced a series which lasted only two years and then was discontinued.

The 1858 Indian cent is the rarer of the two, by a substantial margin. Approximately two hundred 1858 Indian cents are known. Compare this to the over one-thousand known specimens of the 1856 flying eagle cent.

As the 1856 is selling for over six hundred dollars in today's market it seems obvious that the 1858 Indian cent should be selling for several thousand dollars, at the very least. But it isn't. Due to its rarity the 1858 Indian cent appears in auctions or is offered for sale very infrequently. Consequently, it hasn't had the past publicity that has been given to the 1856 flying eagle cent. The 1858 Indian cent is available today for less than the price of an 1856 flying eagle cent in comparable condition. We predict that it won't be long before this illogical pricing situation corrects itself. We believe that the 1858 Indian cent is one of the most promising investments in today's numismatic market.

For a limited time only we offer specimens from a very small group of these pieces. At our prices below we believe you will find the 1858 Indian cent to be a most profitable and rewarding investment.

JUST ONE MAN'S OPINION

The Carson City Dollars are the most underpriced series of all coins minted.

All one has to do is check the number minted of each year and you will see that there will never be enough to supply our five (5) million or more (est.) collectors.

Take the 1885 with only 228,000 minted. This would be one for about every twenty-one collectors.

Second comes the 1881 with only 296,000 and so on.

I have a few sets of the 1880 through 1885 complete in Strictly Brilliant Uncirculated.

For Set of Six (6) — $39.50

Below are my prices for single coins . . . all Brilliant Uncirculated.

1878 CC . . . $ 4.75	1881 CC . . . $10.00	1884 CC . . . $ 6.75	1890 CC . . . $10.00
1880 CC . . . 10.00	1882 CC . . . 5.00	1885 CC . . . 12.50	1892 CC . . . 17.50
	1883 CC . . . 5.00	1891 CC . . . 6.50

My second offering for this month is, in my opinion, a small set with a future. The War Time Silver Nickel consisting of 11 coins minted 1942 to 1945. (See Red Book.) This set in Brilliant Uncirculated is beautiful and also underpriced in this booming coin market.

My price for the complete set is $9.95 Only until present stock is sold.

The 1943-D is of course in this set and this is one that I compare in value to the 1942-D which is selling today for 6.50 each.

We are interested in buying Mint uncirculated rolls of all dates. See the May Co. first for the highest prices paid.

I never thought, when I started collecting coins in 1930, that the time would come when the essential part of being a coin collector was ability to lift weights . . . namely, bags of current coins, to be sold as "collectors' items" to "Collectors" by "Dealers" whose only claim to being a coin dealer is the ability to purchase large quantities of current coins and then offer them to these same "Collectors" at a "Fabulous" advance over what their Bank would probably sell the same coin to them for. . . . However! We are offering some of a limited stock of Jefferson 5¢ and other items, all are uncirculated, for the benefit of the "johnny-come-latelys," uncirculated means that the coins have not been in circulation, they may be dull from age and show bag marks from being with other coins, we do not claim them to be EXTRA SPECIAL BRILLIANT HAND-SELECTED, GEM, SUPERIOR QUALITY UNCIRCULATED coins, just plain, common, old-fashioned uncirculated! Just one more word, at our last auction sale, a "Dealer" (The sign on his bourse table said so!) purchased a 1¢ in uncirculated condition, it had mint lustre, it was strictly uncirculated, but it was a light even copper color, he turned it back because it was not the same color as the 1959 cents he was offering for only $1.50 per roll!

Picturing the late Pope Pius XII these coins are of great interest and beauty. The cardboard holders look like leather and the coins themselves are quite scarce. MARCH, 1960

Useful for cleaning all kinds of coins, but particularly adapted to cleaning coins of copper or nickel.

EASY TO USE AND ECONOMICAL! FAST ACTION — IT ACTUALLY CLEANS IN SECONDS!

Does not add shine, but brings out natural color, including original brilliance if it is still there under tarnish or coating. Dull or dark uncirculated coins become brilliant uncirculated coins in seconds.

This result of years of experiment can be safely used on valuable coins to improve their appearance and increase their value.

On sale in many leading stores in 4-oz. bottles, with full directions, at $1.00.

If your dealer does not yet have it, send us $1.00 for 3-oz. bottle (enough to clean hundreds of coins) carefully packed and postpaid to any address in the United States or Canada.

SPECIAL OFFER TO DEALERS
 Send $4.00 for six 4-oz. bottles of "CCC," postpaid.

CARE... the Engineered coin CONDITIONER and PRESERVATIVE

CARE is easy to use. Simply wipe the coin with cotton or a soft cloth moistened in CARE to remove surface dirt and scum, leaving instead a lasting film of protecting silicones. This treatment brings out and enhances any coin's NATURAL color and tone. Adds "life" to dull coins. And makes the coin safe from contamination by toxic agents sometimes found in coin holder paper, on the fingers, and even air borne . . .

BECAUSE CARE IS CHEMICALLY INERT WITH RESPECT TO COIN METALS, IT DOES NOT TURN COINS "BRIGHT." IT DOES NOT REMOVE NATURAL CIRCULATED COLOR, PATINA OR MINT LUSTRE, AND IS SAFE FOR USE EVEN ON UNCIRCULATED AND BRILLIANT PROOF COINS.

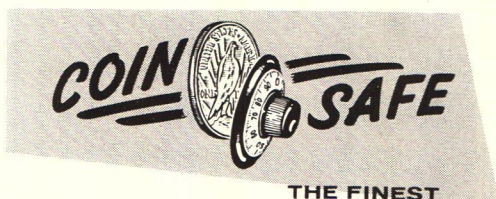

Coins treated with CARE may be stored for years without fear of loss from corrosion. CARE is guaranteed not to contain vegetable oils or other fungus-nutrient ingredients. No need to worry about "spots" showing up on coins which have been treated with CARE.

If you haven't tried CARE, get a bottle from your dealer today. If he does not stock it yet, send me his name and $1.35 for a regular size 2 oz. bottle postpaid. Enough to treat thousands of coins . . . $1.35

The completely revised second edition of A GUIDE TO ROMAN IMPERIAL COINS

by JEROME M. EISENBERG

THE FIRST AUTHORITATIVE ILLUSTRATED GUIDE TO ROMAN IMPERIAL COINS, WITH CURRENT MARKET VALUATIONS FOR 665 DIFFERENT COIN TYPES.

Valuations are given for gold, silver and bronze coins, including aurei, antoniniani, sestertii, dupondii, asses, folles, and small bronzes.

There are over 300 illustrations, including a complete series of portrait coins of the Roman emperors and their families. Reverse types and mint marks are described and illustrated.

The second edition contains three new sections:

ROMAN REPUBLICAN DENARII

LATE ROMAN GOLD AND SILVER COINS

ROMAN EGYPTIAN TETRADRACHMS

A complete revision of the prices in the first edition, published in 1957, has been made, accurately reflecting the increasing demand for Roman coins in both Europe and the United States.

SECOND EDITION (1949) — 32 PAGES, 313 ILLUSTRATIONS — STILL ONLY $1.00

MODERN FOREIGN COINS

The pioneering stage is over in foreign coins, with attractive catalogs available, many dealers with good stocks, and more and more collectors switching toward the field where there is more FUN.

Some start with older issues and work toward the present. Others start with new and recent issues, and work backward in their specialty.

No matter where you start — the START is the thing, and the sooner you start, the sooner you can begin to enjoy yourself in the fascinating field of foreign coins.

My large price lists of MODERN FOREIGN COINS will help you start right.
